Poinsett County Solon Would Stop Inroads of Mail Order Houses and Out-of-State Department Stores

LITTLE ROCK—Representative Nabors Shaw of Poinsett county said Tuesday he had in preparation a bill levying a 2 per cent state "use tax," enactment of which he would seek during the 1939 legislature. Purpose of the law would be to "close all loopholes in the present 2 per cent sales tax," he said.

Five Conference Contests in State Grid Race Friday

North Little Rock-Blytheville Game Holds Spotlight of Week

HOPE AT SMACKOVER
Special Train, Leaving at 4:45, to Carry Boosters Band and Team

By LEONARD ELIAS

While chief interest locally centers on the Bobcat-Buckaroo game at Smackover Friday night, the spotlight of Arkansas High School football will be turned on North Little Rock where Coach Bob Cowan's Wildcats engage the strong Blytheville Chicks in a battle that has a strong bearing on the 1938 championship grid race.

The Chick-Wildcat game will be the "big" high school game in Arkansas this week. The Chicks, defeated by Pine Bluff last week, have made some changes in the backfield, according to reports of the Blytheville Courier News.

From this corner it looks like a North Little Rock victory in a hard-fought battle. The Wildcats have scored more than 100 points in their two games with Brinkley and Russellville and should be able to put over three markers while the Chicks are getting two.

Bobcats and Buckaroos
This will be the fourth straight year that Smackover grid teams have "pointed" for Hope. Despite this fact and close games in the past, the Bobcats will keep their record intact by collaring the Buckaroos, 21 to 0. Stopping Estes, Smackover's fleet back, and halting an expected aerial attack, will be the Bobcat's chief worry at Smackover.

Coach Hammons has not "opened up" with all the power he has. Charles Ray Baker, counted on to do a lot of running, has seen only brief moments because of a leg injury. Joe Eason, last year's fullback, has not found himself in the new role of a halfback, but is expected to get going at any time. Joe has the "stuff."

Tommy Samuels, quarterback, a good runner and kicker, is also a fine passer. He has several touchdowns in his right arm that will count as scores with the development of pass receivers, which takes time.

Within two weeks the Bobcat offense, already potent, will be improved.

Tigers at Shreveport

The Little Rock Tigers will go out of the state for a game with Byrd High at Shreveport. Reports say Byrd doesn't have the team it had last year. Little Rock should win by a close score.

Pine Bluff goes to Fort Smith for a Friday night tussle with the Grizzlies. The Zebras, if not over-confident, should have an easy time in chalking up their second straight conference victory, 21 to 0.

The Jonesboro Hurricane team will invade Hot Springs Friday night and it looks like Jonesboro, 25 to 6.

Benton and Fordyce will tie up in a battle at the Redbug stadium in Fordyce. Benton has shown surprising strength in early games and we pick them to win, 13 to 7.

Camden's Panthers will be at Monroe, La. We know little about Monroe, but it seems the Panther's have just their fight. We pick Monroe on the long end of the score.

Forrest City and Russellville will play at Russellville in another conference game this week. We pick Russellville, 13 to 6, because the Cyclones will have the advantage by playing on their home lot.

Clarksville, defeated by the Bobcats last week, will run Paris ragged with their vaunted aerial attack.

The El Dorado Wildcats, with Allen Berry as their new coach, will meet Nashville at Nashville. Despite reports from El Dorado, which say that only one regular backfield man will be available to start against the Scrappers, because of injuries, we select El Dorado as the winner, 28 to 0.

The Special Train

In conclusion, Bobcat boosters should buy their tickets for the special train to Smackover Friday morning. They go on sale at 8 o'clock at the Missouri Pacific station. Round-trip fare is $1.75. The train leaves at 4:45 p. m. Admission tickets to the game will be sold on the train. The train will depart for Hope immediately after the game.

CHARLESTON, S. C.—(AP)—A tornado hit historic Charleston with sudden, vicious fury about 8 a. m. Thursday, killing at least 22 and injuring probably 300 more in a welter of wreckage spotted throughout the city.

The sudden storm was of not more than a minute's duration, paced by a torrential downpour as it swept down with devastating destruction on various parts of the city. Of the 22 reported killed, 15 were negroes.

Clear Farmer in Johnson's Death

Charles Ashley, Kirby, Acquitted in "Peach King's" Death

MURFREESBORO, Ark.—Charles Ashley, 40, farmer of Kirby, who faced a charge of manslaughter resulting from the wreck in which Bert Johnson, "Arkansas peach king," was killed June 27, was freed by a Circuit Court jury here Wednesday. The state failed to prove that Ashley was drunk at the time of the wreck.

Mrs. Lee Smalling, 67, housewife, star witness for defense, testified that she rendered first aid to Ashley, who was injured severely, and that she was positive he was not drunk. The jury deliberated less than 30 minutes. Judge Minor Milwee adjourned the court until November.

Hope Congregation Prays for Peace

Many Answer Rev. Workman's Call at Methodist Church

An unusual service was held Wednesday night at First Methodist church, when the Rev. James W. Workman preached on the subject of "Prayer and Its Meaning." At the close of his sermon, the Rev. Mr. Workman made a call for people to come to the altar to kneel in prayer that Thursday's four-power peace conference at Munich, Germany, might be successful in maintaining the peace of Europe. A large number responded to this call, and special prayers were uttered that the Prince of Peace might lead the peace meeting to success. The subject of the Rev. Mr. Workman's sermon for Thursday night will be, "The Love of God."

Prescott Pledges $2,000 to Industry

Industrial Program Is Launched at Chamber of Commerce Meet

PRESCOTT, Ark.—Approximately 100 local business and professional men attended the mid-year membership meeting of Prescott Chamber of Commerce at the Loda Hotel Tuesday night and some $2,000 was pledged to a special fund for an industrial program as outlined by the board of directors of the chamber. The free dinner was provided by the Chamber of Commerce. Following the dinner S. H. Cadenhead, secretary, welcomed the members and introduced Dan Pittman, president, who acted as chairman. Mr. Pittman outlined the various activities and accomplishments of the Chamber of Commerce for the past few months and pointed out the value of such an organization to a community. He then stated that the board of directors had outlined an industrial expansion program for Prescott to start in the very near future and that $1750 as a special fund was needed immediately to start this program. Nation a Hotbed of Racial Strife But Resists Nazis

Admiral Horthy Has Held Regency Continuously Since 1920

BEAT RED REVOLT

Bela Kun Set Up Communist Government After War Collapse

By WILLIS THORNTON
NEA Service Staff Correspondent

As one of the "have-not" powers, humbled and dissected by the World war settlement, Hungary has been a natural sympathizer with much of the program which Chancellor Hitler has put in action in Germany.

Like Austria, Hungary has a proud past. Like Austria, Hungary suffered terribly in the postwar confusion of mid-Europe. Like Austria, Hungary was whittled down by the Treaty of Trianon into a fragment for which economic independence is difficult.

So as the German program of Versailles repudiation and expanding nationalism gains headway, Hungary fits into the picture not only from her position on the map, but from the thinking of many of the Magyars who make up the majority of her population.

The Inmredy government tried to resist this wave of pro-German sentiment by repressing the active Hungarian Nazi party, and by trying to institute hurried land reform which will "beat the Nazis to it." But nearly all observers believe Hungary fits naturally into the expanding sphere of German influence if not into actual alliance. Years of effort to line up Hungary with the Little Entente powers have not succeeded.

Germans Are Problem, Too
Germany could help Hungary materially in getting back lands and minorities lost to Czechoslovakia and Rumania. On the other hand, Hungary has 800,000 vociferous Germans, many of them active Nazis who carry on just such a campaign as the Sudeten Germans did in Czechoslovakia. Hungary might lose more than she would gain by binding herself to the Hitler chariot. She is distressed and apprehensive.

The Romans conquered Hungary and ruled that little "Asiatic island in mid-Europe" as Dacia and Pannonia, through the Middle Ages she was a battleground, overrun by the Turks. Her conqueror, emperor of Austria, some 200 years ago she found herself in the Austrian empire of Maria Theresa, whom the Magyar nobles adored. Yet just at the time when Hungary began to approach virtual self-government within the empire, deep antagonism broke out between the ruling class of Magyars and the southern Slavs, Slovaks and Rumanians.

Civil war led to military invasion by Austria and Russian troops, and after a period of discord, the "Dual Monarchy" of Austria-Hungary emerged soon after the American Civil war as the modern state.

Horthy In Power Since 1920
Racial "minority" problems beset Hungary, with dominant Magyar pitied against Slovak, German, Rumanian and Serb minorities, and the World war again accentuated these difficulties. Hungary suffered terribly during that war—nearly half of the "Austrian" troops in Italy at the Piave defeat were Hungarians. Defeat, hunger, exhaustion, set the stage for revolution.

In 1919, Bela Kun, a returned prisoner from Russia, set up a Communist regime in union with the powerful Social Democratic party. Ill-prepared for power, the Bela Kun

State May Take Over County Farm

Gov. Bailey Proposes Central Penal Farm for All Counties

LITTLE ROCK.—(P)—Governor Bailey announced Thursday he was considering a plan to convert Tucker State Prison Farm into a central misdemeanor colony which would supplant all public and private county penal farms.

The governor said Superintendent Al Reed approved the proposal, and State Comptroller J. O. Goff and Engineer L. A. Henry, of the State Planning Board, had been instructed to make an immediate survey to determine the approximate cost of operating such a colony.

Bailey expressed the belief that the creation of such a colony by the legislature would eliminate conditions which resulted recently in criticism of the wide-spread system of leasing county prisoners to private individuals.

Under the proposal the state penitentiary would be concentrated at Cummins State Farm.

Tuberculosis Association Reports on State-Wide Campaign

Early Diagnosis Campaigns were conducted by the Arkansas Tuberculosis association and various county and local tuberculosis associations in approximately 100 Arkansas communities in 46 counties last spring. Miss Eric Chambers, executive secretary of the state association, announced Thursday in her fall report. The campaigns were conducted during April and May.

The Early Diagnosis Campaign is primarily educational, Miss Chambers explained. Its purpose is to familiarize persons with the symptoms of tuberculosis and to bring to public attention the necessity of examination by physicians of all persons who believe they may have been exposed to tuberculosis or have any symptoms of the disease. The campaign paves the way for clinics at which actual tuberculin tests and physical examinations are given.

Information was given to thousands of Arkansas citizens by way of public addresses, newspaper articles, motion picture films, exhibits and the radio. Talks were made by laymen, physicians, nurses, ministers, and by tuberculosis workers at special meetings and through cooperation of the schools. Parent-Teacher associations, chambers of commerce, house demonstration clubs, churches, and civic organizations.

Mrs. B. A. Rhinehart of Little Rock was state chairman of the campaign. Mrs. Harry W. Shiver was chairman of the Early Diagnosis Campaign in Hope.

German Army Is to Make "Parade Occupation" Only

Hitler to Order Symbolical March, But Pledges Against Force

AVERT WAR SCARE

Minor Points in Czech Crisis Are Still Under Consideration

MUNICH, Germany.—(P)—A German spokesman said Thursday night that the four-power Munich conference, seeking a new basis for European peace, had practically reached agreement for a "token occupation" of Sudetenland by the German army.

While the German chancellor and the premiers of Great Britain, France and Italy were still negotiating in the glistening fuhrerhaus—at 8:10 p. m.—the spokesman said only one difficulty remained:

"The question is just how quickly, and from what point, the Czechoslovak army must be withdrawn to permit Adolf Hitler's troops to march into Sudetenland."

The spokesman said he believed documents embracing the agreements which he expected would be reached Thursday night would be signed by Friday at the latest.

This indicated hope that the Prague government, to which this virtual agreement of Hitler, Prime Minister Chamberlain, Premier Daladier and Premier Mussolini was to be submitted, might send an acceptance Thursday night.

Terms Are Reached

MUNICH, Germany.—(P)—Informed German sources said Thursday night that Reichsfuehrer Hitler had agreed that the German army would make only a "parade occupation" of the Eger and Asch regions, in extreme western Czechoslovakia, October 1-2. Other sections of the Sudetenland would be occupied only gradually, these informants said, under a plan said to have been accepted by the fuhrer in place of his original intention of having his armies march Saturday.

This token of occupation, however, would show symbolically that Germany had become master of the regions of Czechoslovakia whose population is predominantly German.

The disclosure came as Hitler still was in conference with the premiers of Britain, France and Italy, in a parley which Europe hopes will assure peace. The premiers were believed to be discussing a compromise plan striking a balance between Hitler's threat to march into Czechoslovakia unless the Sudetenland is ceded to Germany by Saturday.

The British-French proposal is designed to forestall German use of force.

In the "doubtful areas" of Czechoslovakia, where the non-Germanic proportion is larger, it is believed the French, British and Italian army contingents would safeguard a plebiscite from which there could be no appeal.

French "Big Stick"

PARIS, France.—(P)—Premier Daladier was given a "big stick" to wield at the Munich conference Thursday when he was empowered by a new decree to effect instant military and civil mobilization of the entire nation. The decree, published in the official Journal, made it possible for the premier to put the whole French nation on an instant war footing by a simple telephone call from Munich.

A Czech Observer

PRAGUE, Czechoslovakia.—(P)—The foreign ministry decided Thursday to send an observer to the Munich four-power conferences by airplane.

His identity was not disclosed. The decision followed an announcement that Czechoslovakia would accept "in principle" the new British plan for execution of the Anglo-French scheme to cede Sudetenland to Germany, but would make "some res-

Chief Problem of Athlete's Foot Is Prevention of Re-Infection

Among the most widespread of all conditions affecting people today is ringworm of the feet, named by some inspired advertising man "athlete's foot." The great likelihood is today that athletes are troubled with it less than anyone else, because athletes prevent these conditions; if they do not, there are those who do take care of prevention for them.

Long ago it was recognized that the chief difficulty was not in clearing up the condition as it exists on the skin, but the prevention of re-infection. It has been found that the fungus of ringworm which causes athlete's foot can live in the stockings, the shoes, on the floor of swimming pools, in underclothing, and indeed almost anywhere.

Therefore it becomes necessary not only to make certain that the condition is removed from the skin, but also that the living organisms which can re-infect the patient are removed from his clothing and his surroundings.

A medical investigator in Syria recently proved that ordinary washing of silk, cotton, or woolen clothing did not remove the organisms.

Tests were also made of the inner lining of shoes and it was found that the organisms also grew in abundance on such material. It was found, furthermore, that this fungus will grow on wood, seaweed, and even on slightly soiled surfaces of rocks.

People infected with athlete's foot will walk in their bare feet on diving boards, on rocks at the seashore, and in gymnasiums; the blisters and scales caused by ringworm of the feet will be dropped off and infect the surfaces on which the person may walk.

The investigators have found that formaldehyde vapors will destroy ringworm on clothing and on shoes. Woolen and silk stockings may be ruined by boiling, and it has been recommended that stockings and shoes be placed each night in a cabinet such as is used by barbers, in which there is opportunity for exposure of the shoes and stockings overnight to the formaldehyde vapors. Such vapors will not destroy the appearance of the color of the fabric concerned.

There are, however, certain people who are sensitive to formaldehyde. They should, of course, know with certainty that they will not react to the formaldehyde before embarking on such a program.

Furthermore, anyone who wishes to prevent athlete's foot should wear rubber slippers in walking to and from the pool and in the shower. Most swimming pools now provide trays of solutions which are destructive to ringworm. The bather must see to it that his feet have a thorough administration of this material each time he uses the shower or pool.

There are many widely advertised solutions for treatment of ringworm of the feet, but these are inefficient in severe cases. The treatment of severe cases is a problem for the expert physician to handle and may require a long time.

A Bullet Made A Surgical Career

Continuing the cycle of medical autobiographies, "George Sava," one-time Russian prince offers the life story of a surgeon-by-accident in "The Healing Knife" (Harcourt, Brace and Co., $2.50).

Now a successful surgeon in London, and with his identity carefully protected by pseudonym, Sava writes revealingly of his struggle to attain medical knowledge and training.

His first operation was performed to save the life of a comrade during the nobility's mad fight from Russia after the collapse of the White Russian regime. Knowing almost nothing of anatomy, but confident with the knowledge that his friend would die unless a bullet pressing against his heart was removed, Sava performed the impossible, and operating with a white-hot clasp knife, extracted the bullet.

There the surgeon was born. His development affords Sava the opportunity to tell of studying anatomy in the candle-lit darkness of a deserted dissecting room, where he worked as a stoker. His royal Russian ancestry and an unfaithful sweetheart led him to Paris, and ultimately to honors.

At the height of his success in his profession, he met reverses in love and tossed away his life work to join a roving band of Spanish gypsies. There he saved the life of the chief's son, and knew his existence was inevitably linked with surgery. More an adventure in medicine than a record of case histories, Sava's story is excellent reading.—T.J.H.

Fall Best Time to Plant Lilies

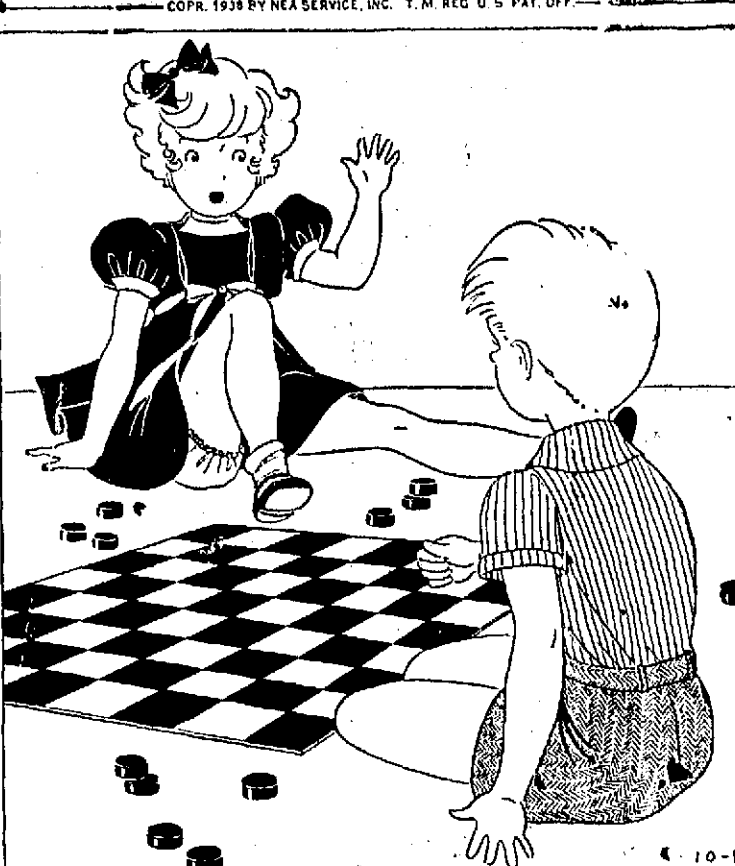

Gold Banded Lily of Japan

Hardy lilies are among the plants for which a period of dormancy in cool weather is necessary if they are to complete their growth cycle. Because of their late arrival from Japan each year, and the fear of winter hazards, many gardeners wait until spring to plant them.

But there are hazards in this course against which the beginner should be warned. If lilies are not planted this all they must be kept over winter in storage to give them their chill and to check root which would destroy them if kept out of the earth in warm temperatures.

Not all lilies which are offered for sale in the spring, experience proves, have spent the winter in cold storage. Some bulbs are traded in which have been grown during the winter to produce greenhouse flowers, and these will not flower again for another full year. So many novices buying bargain bulbs have discovered.

Again, when cold storage bulbs are planted in the spring, they must still make roots and grow underground a long time before they produce flowers. This delays their flowering season at best, and at the worst they encounter spring weather which is anything but favorable to root production. For it, cool and moist weather is essential. Dry weather retards growth and warm weather forces it prematurely, causing the top to appear before there are roots to sustain it, resulting in a stunted flower or no flower at all.

On the whole, the average of success is higher where hardy lilies are planted in the fall. They begin at once to make roots under the most favorable conditions; in the spring they develop normally and they blossom at their normal season with vigorous

"Outfits the Family"

SERIAL STORY HIT-RUN LOVE BY MARGUERITE GAHAGAN

COPYRIGHT, 1938 NEA SERVICE, INC.

Yesterday, Larry calls Pat's young brother, Bill, to the door. He is to help Pat. He is to testify tomorrow.

CHAPTER XIII

THEY sat there in the little cubby-hole of an office—Pat and Bill—while the day drew to a close around them. The boy's words had shaken Pat more than she realized. He had come to court prepared to tell a lie—a white lie as he believed—to save the man she loved.

She pressed her hands against her throbbing temples and twisted around in her desk chair.

"You must promise not to do it, Bill. You can't do it. If Larry is innocent he can prove it without putting you on the stand to lie for him. If—if he is guilty," her voice trembled, then grew steady again, "then he must pay the penalty. I'll tell him in the morning that you are not to lie for him, and if he insists on putting you on the stand that you will admit that you know nothing at all about the car—either before or after the accident."

The wide-eyed wonder in Bill's eyes gave her courage. The light in them was no longer embarrassed, but proud. She had not failed him. He and Joe could continue to look up at her.

Pat sent him off home then, pleading that extra work would keep her busy. Actually she stayed to continue her own fight. The trick that Larry had meant to play with Bill shook her. He meant to do everything in his power to get off clean. Larry would use any means.

And what if he succeeded? What if as the case continued tomorrow she saw he was winning, breaking down witnesses who thought he was the driver of the car? Had she the right to interfere? She knew he was guilty, that he had killed a woman, seriously injured a child. He had admitted the truth to her, but the admission had been to her as his fiancée. In court a wife could not be forced to testify against her husband. Larry would never have made the admission to her if he had not been sure of her love and loyalty. Yet his own love for her had not prevented him from attempting to use Bill, and would not stop him from putting her on the stand to swear to his lies.

LOVE was gone. She knew that now. Larry had killed her love as definitely as when he became a hit-run driver. The act of being involved in a tragedy was not what had killed her love. To have stood beside him as he faced that charge would have been her right, the privilege of her love. But running away, denying responsibility, lying—that had burned the last remnant of affection from her heart.

She slipped her ring from her engagement finger, watching the sparkling diamond catch the rays of the late sun. Tears in her eyes surrounded it with tiny rainbows.

She blinked quickly as the door of the office opened. It was Tom, his arms filled with dog-eared law books.

"Still working away?" he asked, looking down at her while she tried to blink away the tears from her eyes. She could feel his nearness, his kindness.

He put the books down on the desk, stopping suddenly as his fingers brushed the ring that still sparkled in the light. He reached for her hand, touched the bare finger.

"What does it mean, Pat?" he asked, his voice husky with feeling. "Can I help? Have you had a quarrel with—with someone?"

SOMEHOW she controlled herself. "It's all over, Tom. I'm a lot better off. It—it just wasn't meant to be. I see that now. I'm glad I found out in time."

"I don't know who he is, but I do know he's a fool to let something take you away from him. I wouldn't if I were in his place. I'd fight to keep you. There wouldn't be anything I wouldn't do if I were this chap."

"That's because you're different, Tom. You're—you're just you: honest and kind."

"Do you mean that?"

"Yes—everyone knows it. You can't be swayed when you know you're doing what's right. You can't be bought off. You're honest, true."

"I'm honest when I say I care for you, Pat. Maybe now isn't the time to say that, not now when your world has crashed and you're so unhappy, but it's true. I care for you more than I've cared for anyone before in my whole life. All these weeks over here I've watched you, wanted to be near you, waited in the morning for you to come in the courtroom, planned so that I could sit when you were ready, hung around late just to say goodby to in the afternoon. I love you. I didn't think I had a chance before, but now, Pat—now—do you think I have?"

She put her hand over his, feeling his strength and courage, his

A Hymn Of Peace for the Nations

Brother, shout your country's anthem,
Sing your land's undying fame,
Light the wondrous tale of nations
With your people's golden name;
Tell your fathers' noble story,
Raise on high your country's sign;
Join, then, in the final glory—
Brother, lift your flag with mine!
Hail the sun of peace, help its rising;
Hail the war clouds closer furled;
Blow your banners, O my brother,
In the rainbow of the world;
Melt your colors, wonder woven,
In the great white light of Truth!
Build the road of Peace before us,
Build it wide and deep and long;
Speed the slow and check the eager,
Help the weak and check the eager,
Help the weak and curb the strong,
None shall push aside another,
None shall let another fall;
March beside me, O my brother,
All for one and one for all!—Selected.

A Brownie troupe of the Girl Scouts was organized on Wednesday with a group of girls between seven and ten years from Paisley school and Mrs. R. V. McGinnis in charge. The following girls will enroll as charter members: Joan Card, Mary Anita Laseter, Ruby Nell Parsons, Mary Katherine O'Dwyer, Betty Willis Northcott, Frankie Rowe, Maxine Bowden, Helen Margaret Sales, Ellen Jean Sullivan, Peggy Marie Pentecost and Martha Marilyn McGinnis. The meetings will be held on Wednesday afternoons after school in the basement of the First Methodist church, until the hut at Fair Park is completed.

Miss Ethel Rose is a guest of friends and relatives in the city en route to her home in La Feria, Texas, from a visit in St. Louis, Mo.

To live content with small means, to seek elegance rather than luxury, and refinement rather than fashion; to be worthy, not only respectable and wealthy, not rich; to study hard, think quietly, talk gently and frankly; to listen to stars and birds, to babes and sages with open heart; to hear all cheerfully, do all bravely, await occasions, hurry never—in a word to let the spiritual, unbidden and unconscious grow up through the common—This is my symphony.—Selected.

government broke down internally, and tried to recoup by Red Army expeditions against the Czechs, then against the Rumanians.

With Allied help, the Rumanians defeated them and overthrew the Communist regime.

When the Rumanians retired, Admiral Horthy established himself as Regent in 1920, and remains in that post today. Ringed in by customs barriers erected by the Little Entente powers intent on preserving the status of the Treaty of Trianon, Hungary made slow and difficult progress toward economic stability.

Hitler Eyes Hungarian Grain
More than half Hungary's people are supported on the land, and she could furnish Germany with badly-needed grain supplies. That is where the chief German interest in Hungary lies. Between 30 and 40 million bushels of wheat come off the fertile Hungarian plain every year.

Monarchist spirit is far from dead, and the elevation of a king to the "throne without a king" where Horthy now rules has been regarded as the best defense against Fascism. But this has always been blocked.

A few years ago the Hungarian government consulted with Austria with a view toward both countries joining the Little Entente, making a Danubian bloc to oppose the spread of Hitler.

The move failed. Now it is too late. Austria is no more. What lies ahead for Hungary?

War Threat Haunted
LONDON, Eng.—(AP)—Europe was halted on the brink of war Wednesday night by a swiftly called peace conference of Great Britain, France, Germany and Italy.

The four powers, working against expiration of Germany's 24-hour suspension of mobilization plans, will meet Thursday in Munich seeking a peaceful solution of Adolf Hitler's demands for Czechoslovakia's Sudetenland by October 1. Thus peace menaced by the ever-mounting millions of men under arms, got at least a reprieve.

Prime Minister Chamberlain revealed this when he announced to a tense

Arline Blackburn, the "Linda" of radio fame, is shown proudly selecting presents for the beaming young lady in the insert above. The baby was named "Linda" for the heroine of "Linda's First Love," radio serial sponsored by The Kroger Grocery and Baking company. The small Linda is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Oliver C. House of Commons that Hitler had agreed to postpone German mobilization for 24 hours from 2 p. m. Wednesday.

Chamberlain, Hitler, Premier Mussolini of France and Premier Mussolini of Italy are to meet in Munich for a peace conference, possibly the most vital since Versailles, which yet may avert war over German demands for Sudetenland.

Last-Minute Appeal
Before he spoke, Chamberlain had sent a last-minute appeal to Mussolini to urge peace upon his German ally, but until he was well into his Parliament speech the British prime minister did not know the result of that appeal.

In a voice filled with emotion he told how one measure after another even his own two dramatic flights to Germany—had failed to weaken Hitler's determination to take the Sudeten areas of Czechoslovakia at once. War feeling grew among Parliament members, diplomats and others packing the galleries as the prime minister went on.

Then, unnoticed by many, a piece of paper was passed along to Chamberlain. For a moment the prime minister paused in his speech to read the message once, then twice.

His listeners wondered what it contained. Chamberlain slipped the paper into the pages of his manuscript and went on with his narrative—but an unmistakable change came in his voice. He began speaking faster as though hurrying to a dramatic revelation of the news just ahead.

"Then he told them:
"In reply to a message to Mussolini, I was informed that instructions had been sent to the Italian ambassador in Berlin to see von Ribbentrop (German foreign minister) at once to say that, while Italy would fulfill completely her pledges to stand by Germany, in view of the great importance of a request made by his majesty's government Mussolini hoped Hitler would see his way to postpone action which the chancellor (Hitler) had told Sir Horace Wilson was to be taken at 2 o'clock today—for at least 24 hours—to allow him (Mussolini) to re-examine the situation and find a peaceful solution."
This meant that Mussolini upon British urging had intervened with Hitler to postpone German mobilization. It also disclosed for the first time that Hitler previously had told Chamberlain's closest adviser, Sir Horace Wilson, that Germany would mobilize at 2 p. m. (10 a. m. E. S. T.) today for enforcement of Hitler's demands on Czechoslovakia.

Mussolini Cheered
"In response, Hitler agreed to postpone mobilization for 24 hours," Chamberlain said.
He then paid high tribute to Mussolini.

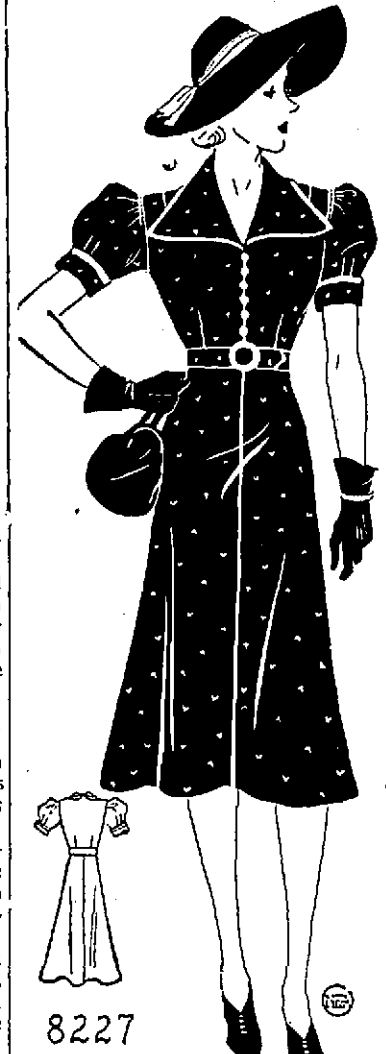

"Whatever views we may have had about Mussolini in the past, I believe everyone will welcome his gesture. He has been willing to work with us, but that is not all." Here he was

Today's Fashion Hint

Here's Dress With the New 'Shugged Shoulder' Effect

By CAROL DAY

Sleeves up, waist in, chest out—these are fashion's orders for this season. Here's a clever little design. Pattern 8227, simple as ABC, but much more sophisticated, that gives you just the right effect.

The plain skirt hugs the hips smoothly, the waistline looks tiny because it is carefully fitted in by darts, wide ruffles emphasize the bustline and the Victorian sleeves peek up with the new "shugged shoulder" look.
It's a beautifully adaptable style. Practically everybody between the sizes of 14 and 44 can wear it.
This will be pretty in flat crepe, but better in wool, sheer tweed, challis.

outlining the plan in detail Mr. Pittman called for pledges. The members present were so favorably impressed with the plan that pledges started in immediately and in a very short time some $1500 was pledged.

Secretary Cadenhead stated Wednesday that with the $1500 pledged and contributions that he was assured of from members who were not present at the meeting he felt sure that $2,000 would be pledged to the fund. This, he said would be a sufficient amount to get the program under way in a short time.

St. Paul W. M. S.

Eleven members answered the roll call at the meeting of the W. M. S. at St. Paul church Tuesday afternoon. After the opening hymn, Mrs. B. F. Goodlett rendered the devotional, "Sweet Hour of Prayer" was sung and Mrs. Goodlett read portions of the 65th Psalm with interesting commentaries followed by a prayer. Mrs. W. P. Wallace very efficiently conducted the Bible Study which was on the First Commandment. The hymn, "Glory to His Name" was followed by the benediction.

If present farming practices continue the Department of Agriculture believes 60 per cent of the crop land in the U.S. will be seriously damaged by erosion.

STORIES IN STAMPS

Where Popes Once Lived in France

ANCIENT city of storied battlements and Roman conquest, Avignon, France, lies on the east bank of the Rhone river, is a busy center today of flour milling, oil refining and leather making. The town is likewise well known for its sarsenet and other rich fabrics, but chiefly it is distinguished as the one-time home of the papacy. The city became the seat of the papal court in 1309 when Clement V took up his residence there. It remained the seat until 1376, when Gregory XI left it to make Rome once more the papal metropolis after the so-called Babylonian exile. In the period immediately following, Clement VII and Benedict XIII lived there. The city was the property of the papal see from 1348 to 1791, when it was seized by France with much bloodshed.

During their occupation the popes laid out and built a spectacular palace, combination of castle, convent and fortress. Its construction took 30 years. The ramparts, rare examples of 14th century architecture, are surrounded by boulevards. John XXII began the fortress in 1316. The city of Avignon owns it today. The palace of the popes is shown here on a current French stamp. (Copyright, 1938, NEA Service, Inc.)

Greenberg Fails to Hit Against Browns

DETROIT — (AP) — Hank Greenberg, needing two more home runs to tie Babe Ruth's major league record of 60, went hitless Wednesday as his Detroit Tiger teammates batted out a 12-to-0 victory over the St. Louis Browns.

The big first baseman walked twice, struck out twice and hit one pop fly. George Gill scattered eight St. Louis hits to win his twelfth game of the season.

The Tigers hit Howard Mills, Brown starting pitcher, hard, collecting six runs in the third inning on as many hits. After filling the bases with one out in the sixth, Mills retired. George Tebbetts, first to face Relief Hurler Emil Bidilili, hit the ball into the left field stands to clean the sacks.

There were steam automobiles rumbling over England highways as early as 1825, according to Prof. John S. Worley of the University of Michigan.

Prescott Curly Wolves to Play Dierks Friday

DIERKS, Ark.—The Dierks High School Outlaws, victims of a 6 to 0 setback last week-end at the hands of the DeQueen Leopards, are going through stiff practice sessions daily in preparation for their game here Friday afternoon with the Prescott High School Curly Wolves.

The two local tackle positions looked very strong against De Queen eleven last Friday and Coach Bruner is spending quite a bit of time this week trying to develop a pair of guards that will match the two tackle holes.

The PAYOFF

By JERRY BRONDFIELD
NEA Service Sports Writer

Politics enters the football picture at Ohio State, according to reports abroad on high schools. Jobs for athletes in the various state departments in Columbus might be withdrawn, it is said, because some of Governor Davey's lieutenants are dissatisfied with the way university people supported—or did not support—Davey in his losing battle in recent primaries.

Nick Katzmeier, Saint Mary's tackle, is springing some psychology on the Gaels. . . . He clipped all the unkind and complimentary remarks printed about Slip Madigan's boys last year, and pastes one a day on the bulletin board. . . . He figures that he will have enough for the entire season.

Coneches and trainers agree that most football injuries come while boys perform blocking chores. . . . Tackling, ball-carrying, being tackled, and being blocked, produce the next most number of injuries in that order.

Northwestern is three-and-a-half deep at the guards this fall. . . . The Wildcats have no less than seven notches, including the lettermen, Don Guritz, Dick Wells, Hal Method, John Goldak, and Fred Heitman. . . . and toughlooking sophomores in Art Niedbalski and Joe Lukanc. . . . Elmer Layden may be sorry that he let Niedbalski get out of South Bend.

Big Centers Less Mobile

Stubby Gomer Jones, Ohio State's All-America center of 1935, returned to his Alma Mater as assistant line coach this fall. . . . where he is working on Charley Mang, sophomore snapperback who stands 6 feet 3 and weighs 215. . . . Buckeye fans say Mang lays himself open to manslaughter charges on defense, but has a lot to learn on offense.

Jones prefers a smaller man at center. . . . Big boys are great at batting down passes, but they can't gather themselves in a hurry for a quick change.

Bob Gibson, son of Billy Gibson, former manager of Gene Tunney and Benny Leonard, is expected to have a bangup year at center in his last season at Dartmouth.

Illinois has a promising quarterback candidate named Vil Valiquet, who is an adagio dancer. . . . He was worried as to whether his professional dancing status would impair his amateur standing. . . . Dr. Bob Browne, Illinois eligibility expert, assured him it wouldn't.

One-Man One-Side-of-Line

Fordham wise crackers say Jimmy Crowley will have a right end, tackle, guard, and center. . . . The left side of the line will be played by John Kuzman, 230-pound sophomore tackle. . . . Marshall Goldberg and Dick Cussiano have a side bet as to who will be the first to score on Fordham for Pittsburgh. . . . After arguing a while, they decided both would turn the trick in Pitt Stadium, October 29.

Bernie Moore indicates he has a successor to Gaynell Tinsley at Louisiana State in Ken Kavanaugh. . . . who stands 6 feet 2, carries 200 pounds, and snafes passes with one hand. . . . Beefus Bryan, Texas' star halfback, is a 14-foot pole vaulter. He is expected to take up in football where Hugh Wolfe left off.

Senator Guffey Is Back From Europe

Politicians Seem to Get About When Vacationing Abroad

By PRESTON GROVER
WASHINGTON.—What do politicians do when they go to Europe? Egad, sir, they get about.

Here's Senator Guffey of Pennsylvania, for instance, who is just back from several weeks in Europe where he went as one of the several representatives of the United States at the Interparliamentary union at The Hague.

From the host he went directly to Paris. It was hot there. Paris calls it

"unusual weather." (Where have we heard that before?)
"What did you do there?" we asked.
"Oh, I toured about the city to see what there was to see."
"Folies Bergere?"
"Folies Bergere," confirmed Guffey. "Some pretty girls there," he added, "and all the pretty ones are Americans." Senator Guffey did not pretend to be an international diplomat. He is an American politician.

Those Drinks at Deauville
The senator likes a good noggin of whisky now and again, so we asked him about the liquor supply in Europe. "There isn't a good drink of whisky in Europe," he snorted.

He later modified this slightly. At the Deauville home of his friend, Ralph B. Strassburger, owner of the Norris-town, Pa. Times, he got a drink of the "Best Scotch I ever tasted in my life." He moved on to St. Jean de Luce to visit Claude Bower, American ambassador to Spain, who is compelled to live in this French city just across the border instead of in Madrid. Together they went to the border and looked across into embattled Spain. They did not hear the guns, as the fighting was far away.

He planned a few days in Switzerland but heard that Frank Kent, Washington writer, had been made into a new man at Vichy. He met Kent, who confirmed it. Guffey was run down but he could endure to be run up a little more before swinging into the Pennsylvania campaign this fall. "Wonderful," is his verdict about Vichy. He took the cure, drank the water and took the baths and the rubbing and the diet, with some modifications, and he too, felt like a new man.

By then it was time to move on to The Hague for the Interparliamentary union. Hedged about by war and rumors of war, the union didn't take any very aggressive action. He visited art museums in The Hague and at Amsterdam and took a trip into the country.

"But a cow," says the senator, philosophically, "looks just like a cow, wherever you see one."

Home Are the Sailors
At this point Senator Reynolds of North Carolina, buoyant because he is a cinch for re-election, came up to our table. He passed by a table where sat three senate stenographers. He knew only one by Smilin' Bob greeted 'em all as gaily as a college boy and twice as noisily and they love it.

"I been missin' you," he said to one of the girls he had never seen before. She colored to the eyebrows but beamed back: "I been missin' you too."

Guffey shook his head in frank envy. Couldn't he lay 'em out in Pennsylvania with a manner like that.

"I been traveling, too," shouted Reynolds. "I went to Alaska."

"How're the Eskimos?" asked Guffey.

"Mighty good," said Reynolds, winking. "I'm a big game hunter."

"Shooting bull?" asked Guffey.

"Bull walrus," grinned Reynolds.

Later we asked Guffey what happened when European hotels discovered he was a senator.

"Gave better service," he replied.

First Pretzel Bender Gives Collection New Twist

NEW YORK.—We have just come away from viewing the first pretzel-bending machine ever made by man who, in his wisdom, has overcome the obstacles of Nature in many things.

We inspected the inaugural pretzel-bending in the most amazing museum in town. One that is not open to the general public for the moment, but one museum now clutters up the entire thirty-fourth floor of the International Building in Radio City and belongs to a pair of fabulous gentlemen named Douglas Hertz and Crosby Gaige. The first is a Broadway producer country squire, gourmet, engraver, cattle breeder, insect collector and fudge expert.

Anything Collector

Now for the museum which shelters the first pretzel benders. Here's the story: Back in 1890, the U.S. Patent Office in Washington had no more storage space for working models of inventions on the register. What's more, the folk who worked in the Patent Office were gradually reducing their desk space down to zero because of the horrible mess of stuff that cluttered the premises. So, as a desperate measure, Congress passed a bill decreeing that inventions could send only blue-prints of their new-fangled devices to Washington. And in the same breath, Congress o.k.'d the sale of all the existing old models to private bidders.

Along came a British hobbyist, Sir Henry Wellcome by name. Sir Henry collected anything. He heard about Congress' bill and he sent agents over with instructions to buy up did. By everything, we mean 200,000 models of inventions that had been between 1820 and 1900.

Well, Sir Henry passed away, and in due course of time his estate was liquidated among his heirs and it seems that no one among Sir Henry's descendants cared especially for the warehouse containing those 200,000 items. And so it happened that the Messrs. Hertz and Gaige, who are boyishly enthused about such things, came into possession. They paid a handsome price for the whole shebang.

Ancient Ritual Ushers in Jewish New Year

The ancient ritual of Rosh Hashanah, Jewish New Year, is performed in the above picture of two Jewish patriarchs officiating at the annual religious observance. One blows the "Shofar," or ram's horn, calling the Jews to penitence and reflection and one holds the holy scroll of "Torah" or Old Testament. Orthodox Jews celebrate the New Year two days, while reform temples limit the observance to one day. Yom Kippur, "Day of Atonement," climaxes the 10 days of penitence, which this year are from sunset, Sept. 25, to Oct. 4.

HELP KIDNEYS PASS 3 LBS. A DAY

Doctors say your kidneys contain 15 miles of tiny tubes or filters which help to purify the blood and keep you healthy. Most people pass about 3 pints a day or about 3 pounds of waste. Frequent or steady passers with morning and burning shows there may be something wrong with your kidneys or bladder. An excess of acids or poisons in your blood when due to functional kidney disorders, may be the cause of passing backache, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up at night, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headache and dizziness. Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisons waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.

A Milestone in Gasoline Progress

PATENTED Essolene

Contains exclusive solvent... fights carbon... keeps your motor gum-free... gives extra power and mileage

HERE is one of the outstanding developments in gasoline history. A gasoline that fights carbon. A gasoline so different it's been granted a U. S. Patent!
An exclusive solvent in Essolene prevents gum formation—minimizes formation of other deposits in the engine.
With no gummy binder to hold carbon, it can blow right out the exhaust. Valves and pistons stay clean... you get better operating conditions because every drop of Essolene does full-time driving duty unhampered by gum and carbon.
Essolene gives you the best qualities of any regular-priced gasoline—plus the exclusive solvent at no extra cost. A month's trial will convince you.
